“They have done a very good job selling our movie internationally. They are also very good about keeping in contact. They always return emails and are simply nice people. I’m very happy we went with Journeyman.”

Ramsey Denison, Director of What Happened in Vegas

"It's great to see that you are working with Journeyman Pictures
- they are a reputable name in this industry."

Scott Hillier, European Independent Film Channel

A young man with short dreadlocks is sitting in a war-torn area. He is wearing a white t-shirt with a camouflage pattern. He is surrounded by military equipment, including a large metal barrel and various pieces of machinery. The background shows a destroyed building and a vehicle. The scene is lit with warm, golden light, suggesting late afternoon or early morning.

“I am using Journeyman Pictures for TV distribution throughout the world. Not only are they effective and have reach everywhere, but they provide reports regularly and pay their bills on time.”

Dal La Magna, Producer of War Child
